The Kids from New York wrote:

To help other people we started a project called "We Band Against Bullying" and we created lots of bracelets. We also made maid posters with pledges of peace that hung in the hall.

The group from Austria wrote:

All people are different. Never the less we should help each other. We would like to donate money and food to underprivileged people. But we would also like to try to get along with our classmates, to help and accept one another and have fun together.
